In addition to the boats dispatched from southern Irish ports, fast steamships were hurried from Liverpool, Waterford, and Cork, British destroyers, which have been patrolling the southern coast of Ireland and St. George's Channel, were sent at full speed towards Kinsale Head.

Despite the Lloyds report that the passengers and crew of the Lusitania were considered safe, the belief was general here this evening that the loss might have been heavy.

As soon as news was received here that the Lustania had been sunk the Cunard offices were besieged by anxious inquirers. At the same time, scores of Americans visited the United States Embassy clamoring for news of the Americans who were on board the Cunard boat. At first the public was skeptical, believing it was impossible for German submarinas to catch the big liner unawares. The Admirally had taken pains to guard the Lustania and other big tiners in the belief that their services

SLAVS SWEPT OUT OF DUKLA, TOKIO'S TERMS, YIELD TARNOW

Austro-Germans Storm Czar's Galician Centre, Push Foe Back to Wisloka River.

Gateway Into Hungary at Dukla Now Firmly Gripped by Germans, Berlin Announces-Kaiser's Men Repulse British at Hill No. 60.

Tarnow has been entered by the Austro-Germans in their sweeping eastward progress, which already has given control of Gorlice and Jaslo. Vienna reports forcing the Galician invaders to their second line on the Wisloka River. Berlin's official report chronicles an advance to the right (east) bank of the Wisloka, and announces mastery of the Dukla Pass.

Petrograd, through Foreign Minister Bozonoff, enters general denial of great Teuton triumphs in Galicia.

Resumption of German offensives at several Poland points is announced by the Slavs, who interpret these as a movement to withhold Muscovite reinforcements from Galicia. Admission is made that the Czar's forces have retired to previously fortified posttions between the Vistula and Carpathians, and that Russians and Teutons are at grips along the Tarnow-Jaslo front. The Germans are closing in on the main British base at Ypres, the War Office asserted today. It was also declared that the Germans in possession of Hill 60 have repulsed with very heavy loss all of the attempts of the British to retake this position.
